Personal Statement

I build intelligent systems that utilize data to inform human users to make better decisions and to automate processes that require extensive time, labor, and resources. My research interests are in statistical and machine learning with an emphasis on Bayesian methods.

Education

Baylor University

Ph.D. Statistics

Software Projects (Available at <http://github.com/ramhiser>) activelearning: An R Package for Querying Unlabeled Observations with Active Learning.

clusteval: Evaluation of Clustering Algorithms in R.

datamicroarray: Collection of High-Dimensional Microarray Data Sets.

itertools2: A port of Python's `itertools` module to R for efficient looping via iterators.

noncensus: An R collection to interface with data collected by the U.S. Census Bureau.

openCyto: An R Package for Automated Analysis of Flow Cytometry Data.

sortinghat: An R package for error-rate estimation methods for supervised classification.

sparsediscrim: An R Package for Regularized and Sparse Discriminant Analysis Methods.

Research Experience

Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center

Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Seattle, WA

August 2012-October 2013

Pacific Northwest National Laboratory

Research Associate, National Security Internship Program

Richland, WA

June 2011 - July 2012

Statistical and Machine Learning Research Group

Department of Statistical Science, Baylor University

Waco, TX

2009-2012

Research Experience for Undergraduates at The Ohio State University

Vertical Integration of Research and Education in Computational Mathematics

Columbus, OH

Summer 2004

Conference Papers

Ramey, J. A. and Young, D. M. (2010). A More Computationally Efficient Model Selection Method for Regularized Discriminant Analysis, Joint Statistical Meetings Proceedings, Vancouver, BC, Canada.

Awards, Grants & Honors

Travel Grant, $1,000 – Baylor University	2011
Outstanding Graduate Student – Department of Statistical Science, Baylor University	2011
JSM Stat Bowl – Champion	2010
Outstanding First Year Graduate Student – Department of Statistical Science	2009
Baylor University Dean's Scholarship	2008-2012

Invited Talks

Ramey, J. A. (November 2012). Automated Bayesian Gating with OpenCyto. FlowCAP-III Summit, National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Maryland, USA.

Ramey, J. A. (February 2012). Diagonal Discriminant Analysis with Simultaneous Diagonalization of Covariance Matrices. Fred Hutchison Cancer Research Center, Seattle, Washington, USA.

Ramey, J. A. (February 2011). Diagonal Discriminant Analysis after Simultaneous Diagonalization of Covariance Matrices with High-Dimensional Data. Pacific Northwest National Laboratory, Richland, Washington, USA.

Presentations

Teaching Experience

Elementary Statistics

Teacher of Record

Baylor University
Aug. 2009 - May 2011

- Taught this freshman level course in the Statistics Department.
- Developed homework, quizzes and exams for the class.
- Attended weekly meetings to enhance and improve teaching skills and techniques.

Statistics Department Tutoring Lab

Graduate Teaching Assistant

Baylor University
Aug. 2008 - May 2011

- Conducted one-on-one and group tutoring to students in undergraduate statistics courses.

Statistics for Psychology Majors

Graduate Teaching Assistant

Baylor University
Aug. 2008 - Jul. 2009

- Provided weekly supplemental instruction to a small group of undergraduate students.
- Lectured to a large number of students in an auditorium during professor absences.
- Led weekly course seminars.

Professional Membership

American Statistical Association

2008-present

Skills

Programming and Markup Languages

- Skilled: R
- Proficient: \LaTeX , Linux, Python, SQL
- Experienced: ASP, BUGS, C#, C++, Java, Mathematica, MATLAB, .NET, PHP

Miscellaneous

Innovation in Graduate Education Challenge

Judge

National Science Foundation
2013

Systems and Computational Biology Affinity Group

Co-Organizer

Fred Hutchinson Cancer Center
2013

United States Soccer Federation

Referee

1995 - present
